NEWSROOM NOTES— The midpoint of national family income went over $10,000 last year for the first time in U.S. history, but inflation eliminated all the gain in purchasing power, the Census Bureau said today.

According to the bureau, of the 53.3 million families in the United States, 27.6 million or 51.7 per cent received income of $10,000 or more in 1971.

The bureau figured that median family income, or the middle point of family income, was $10,285 last year. The figure is not an average.

A year earlier median family income was $9,870. Purchasing power was unchanged because of rising prices, the bureau said.

The bureau said there were 9.9 million families or 18.5 per cent with incomes between $7,- 000 and $10,000, 6 million families or 11.2 per cent between $5,000 and $7,000, and 9.8 million families or 18.5 per cent with incomes below $5,000.

The midpoint of annual income for black families was $6,440. This was about 60 per cent of the middle income for white families, or $10,670.

In a report last week, the bureau said the number of Americans living below the poverty level was essentially unchanged in 1971 over 1970.

That report showed that the official poverty level rose from $3,968 in 1970 to $4,137 because of inflation.

The number of people living below the poverty level last year was 25.6 million compared with 25.4 million a year earlier. Because of sampling errors, the bureau said, there is no statistical difference between the two numbers.

Israelis convict
Japanese radical

LOD, Israel (AP) — An Israeli army court convicted Japanese radical Kozo Okamoto today for his part in the Lod airport massacre of May 30 and sentenced him to life imprisonment.

The 24-year-old defendant stood and listened impassively as the verdict of the three lieutenant colonels was read. After it was translated into Japanese, he sighed deeply.

He was found guilty of all four charges filed against him. Death is the maximum penalty for three of them, but Israel has executed but one person, Nazi war criminal Adolf Eichmann. And the prosecution asked for a life sentence.

Okamoto had pleaded guilty in court and before the trial signed a confession admitting that he and two other Japanese attacked the crowd in Israel's international airport on May 30 with machine guns and grenades, acting on behalf of a Palestine guerrilla organization. Twenty-eight persons were killed, including the other two terrorists, and 70 were wounded.

In a statement Thursday at the end of the four-day trial, Okamoto said his organization in Japan, the United Red Army, would continue its attacks in the cause of world revolution.

The president of the court, Lt. Col. Abraham Frisch, said Okamoto's declaration was "a mixture of unripened ideas ... concerning his and his friends' frustration" with the modern world, its social structure and regimes.

He said Okamoto had taken on the massacre "willingly and in full consciousness."

In the early stages of his interrogation before the trial, Okamoto asked repeatedly to be executed or to be allowed to commit suicide. The military commander for the Lod area, Maj. Gen. Rehavam Zeevi signed an agreement with Okamoto promising him the general's pistol to kill himself with if he made a full confession. Zeevi testified that he later told the young Japanese the agreement was dead because Okamoto had not provided "truthful information."

Okamoto's attorney appointed by the court, Max Kritzman, repeatedly asked the court for a sanity hearing for his client, but Okamoto said he would not agree to one, and the court rejected Kritzman's requests.

Choice of Eagleton linked to
St. Louis produced fighter plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird suggested today the Democratic presidential nominee, George McGovern, has agreed to support the Air Force's new F15 jet fighter plane as the price for getting Sen. Thomas Eagleton as his running mate.

Eagleton is from Missouri where the F15 is being built by McDonnell-Douglas Corp. of St. Louis. As president, McGovern has said he would scrap the F15 in favor of development of a less costly lightweight fighter.

At a Pentagon news conference, Laird said: "I am led to believe, however, that perhaps the vice-presidential candidate in part of his agreement to run was able to get a modification of that position."

The Defense secretary did not say where he got this information or on what it was based.

Laird noted that the F15 is the first weapons system developed under new contracting procedures instituted during his administration for which he claimed "complete and total responsibility as secretary of Defense."

"St. Louis is known as Phantomtown, U.S.A., and it will be known as Eagleton, U.S.A.," Laird quipped with a play on words and Eagleton's name. The F15, dubbed the Eagle by the Air Force at its rollout last month, is intended to replace the F4 Phantom—workhorse plane in Vietnam—which is also built by McDonnell-Douglas in St. Louis.

Flaws in Navy fighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy found 43 major flaws in test models of its new F14 fighter plane during a preliminary evaluation late last year, according to congressional testimony made public today.

Sixteen of those deficiencies related to safety. The Navy told a House Appropriations subcommittee that "corrective action is under way" and that a majority of the repaired aircraft would be ready for testing this summer.

This testimony, which also reported 75 minor problems with the F14, came during closed-door budget hearings last April.

An F14 crashed into Chesapeake Bay June 30, killing its civilian test pilot. Navy sources said divers still are recovering pieces of the plane and that cause of the crash has not yet been determined.

The specific problems detected during evaluation flights by Navy pilots last November and December were referred to only sketchily in the April report to the House subcommittee.

But testimony by senior admirals under questioning indicated deficiencies involved engines stalling, difficulty in recovering from spins, and flight range, among other things.

In addition, the congressmen were told that 10 deficiencies were found in the system controlling the Phoenix missile, the F14's principal weapon. Most of these problems, too, will be straightened out, the Navy assured the subcommittee.

The F14 is designed to serve the Navy in fleet air defense and air superiority missions in the late 1970s and the 1980s.

Despite Pentagon claims that the F14 is indispensable for the Navy in future years, the project has come under intense fire for congressional critics because of its escalating costs. The Pentagon lists the price of an F14 at $16.8 million, up from $11.5 million last year.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., claimed Saturday that the cost will be $20.8 million.

Present plans call for an eventual purchase of 313 F14s.

The Grumman Corp., builder of the F14, has notified the Navy that it is financially unable to build the next batch of 48 F14s unless its contract terms are improved.

The Navy has taken the position that it has a valid contract and that it expects Grumman to perform under its terms.

Grand jury
meets today

State's evidence against 10 persons is being presented to a one-day session of the Lee County Grand Jury.

One of the cases being presented by State's Atty. Albert Kennedy is against Irl Flanagan, 20, Grand Detour. Flanagan was arrested May 14 on four counts of sale of LSD. He was bound over on the charges July 3 by Associate Judge James Allen.

The session was expected to conclude later this afternoon.

Singer seeks peace
with Mayor Daley

CHICAGO (AP) — William Singer, the Chicago alderman who led the insurgent group of Democrats that ousted Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley from the Democratic National Convention, says he hopes to bring about a reconciliation with Daley regularly.

"I hope we can reach some meeting of the minds," Singer was quoted as saying in Monday's editions of the Chicago Tribune.

Daley and 58 other uncommitted delegates elected in the March 21 Illinois primary were ousted from the Miami Beach, Fla. convention after a heated floor fight led by Singer.

Daley has remained in seclusion since the convention, reportedly at his summer home in Grand Beach, Mich. The Tribune quoted unnamed sources as saying the mayor spends most of his time alone in his room alone. It quoted another source as describing Daley "pacing back and forth furiously like a caged lion."

Singer said he would not rule out the possibility of running for mayor but denied that the floor fight in Miami Beach was politically motivated.

"I like grass roots politics. I like the City Council. I've got three more years there, and it's a little premature to think about anything else," he said.

Singer added that Daley probably would still control the Democratic organization in Chi-

Daley will back McGovern

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley, whose delegates to the Democratic National Convention were unseated by insurgents, said today, "I will support the entire Democratic ticket."

However, Daley said, he had sent McGovern a telegram today containing a copy of his statement of support. The mayor emphasized several times during the news conference that he would support all Democratic candidates.

"I am chairman of the Democratic party of Cook County," he said, "and I have always supported the nominees of the Democratic party."

Irish leave homes

BELFAST (AP) — Nearly 4,000 Roman Catholic women and children camped overnight in a football field after leaving their homes in a Belfast battle zone to protest the British Army's occupation of the area.

Five more deaths Sunday pushed Northern Ireland's toll this year to 236 killed, already the worst since 232 died in sectarian battling in 1922. A land mine killed two British soldiers at Crossmaglen; a policeman and a civilian were shot in Belfast, and an 18-year-old youth died in a riot in Strabane.

The Catholic women and children followed their priest, Father Jack Fitzsimmons, out of the Lenadoon Avenue area Sunday claiming the army's show of force was "endangering their lives."

The troops and gunmen of the Irish Republican Army have been squared off in the area since last Thursday. Despite army fears that the exodus was planned to clear the ground for a massive IRA attack, there were only sporadic incidents.

Father Fitzsimmons and other community leaders negotiated until after midnight with British officials in an attempt to get the troops pulled out. Meanwhile, the women and children bedded down in the open or in tents at nearby Casement Park.

The Lenadoon area is a modern housing development where the IRA's 13-day cease-fire broke down last week in a row over housing allocations.

Early today, troops claimed they had shot two gunmen in a squad of four that traded shots for two hours with the army across the Andersonstown area, of which Lenadoon Avenue is part.

Ogilvie signs
tax relief bill

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie signed legislation today designed to provide financial relief for elderly and disabled Illinoisans.

In signing the three bills, Ogilvie said the "aged or disabled who are trying desperately merely to exist have a very special and honorable claim on younger, working citizens who enjoy every day some of the material contributions of these older citizens."

The legislation provides:
1. Cash grants of up to $500 for property tax or rents paid by 280,000 elderly or disabled persons. The amount of the grant declines as a person's income increases and cuts off at $10,000.

2. A total exemption from state income tax for payments received by retired persons from qualified pension plans.

3. Increases of $3.50 a month to 268,000 aged, blind or disabled persons.

The governor contended that the state could afford the loss in revenue from the reform legislation only because of the Illinois income tax.

"With this base," he said, "we can and we have provided reform and relief where most urgently needed in our state tax structure."

Four arrested for Woodhaven incident

Four persons were taken into police custody over the week-end following the reported ransacking of a mobile home at Woodhaven Lakes, Sublette.

Charged with disorderly conduct and criminal damage to property were Mitchell Kaesser, Thomas Nix, Jerry Kerbis and Petro Petropoulos. Warrants are on file for two other persons, including a corporation vice president.

Former Woodhaven employee Wayne Chapin, 49, charged the six men entered the trailer on July 3 and threw clothing, meat and electronic equipment out the door.

Chapin, who explained the trailer was a company vehicle, said he was fired July 1 following a conflict with management. The following day, Chapin's three horses and pet goat were found shot to death, described by Chapin and sheriff's deputies as "execution-style, through the forehead with a high-powered rifle."

The ransacking reportedly took place while the deaths were being investigated at the other end of the Woodhaven property.

Being sought by authorities in connection with the incident were Dale Alexander and Ronald Alexander. The other four men were released on bond.

100 B52s hit
N. Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 100 U.S. B52 bombers and a naval task force of more than a dozen cruisers and destroyers blasted North Vietnamese positions on both sides of the demilitarized zone today in some of the heaviest bombardments of the war.

The raids were in support of a 20,000-man South Vietnamese counteroffensive on northern front. They had the two-fold objective of destroying North Vietnamese troops and supplies already on the battleground and cutting off reinforcements and war materials reportedly moving south.

The Saigon command reported light fighting on the edges of Quang Tri, the provincial capital which fell to the North Vietnamese May 1. It said South Vietnamese paratroopers driving from the East had inched their way to within 200 to 300 yards of the Citadel, the 19th century fortress in the heart of the city.

A dozen B52s struck north of the demilitarized zone on both sides of the port city of Dong Hoi against elements of two North Vietnamese divisions. U.S. military sources said the troops were on the move southward, presumably to join two badly battered divisions in Quang Tri province.

More than 80 giant Stratofortresses struck to the North, West, South and Southwest of Quang Tri city, dropping about 2,500 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese positions.

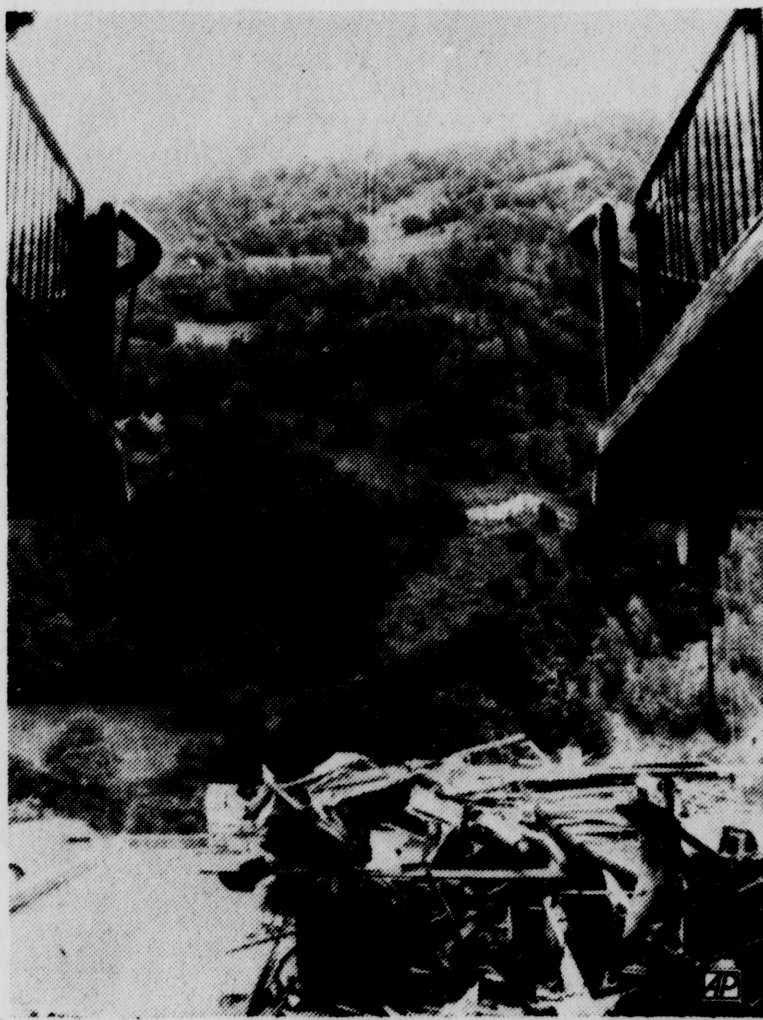

The U.S. Navy said the destroyer Shelton destroyed nearly 30 North Vietnamese emplacements and triggered 10 secondary explosions in bombardment near Quang Tri city. Other ships of the 13-vessel task force firing from offshore included the guided missile cruiser Oklahoma City, flagship of the 7th Fleet, and the destroyer escort Hepburn.

Another task force made up of the destroyers Robison, Hammer, Warrington and Hull bombarded transshipment points and storage areas above the DMZ. The 7th Fleet said the Hull and Robison also destroyed two boatloads of supplies taken off freighters—presumed to be Chinese—at a point southwest of Hon La island, about 30 miles northwest of Dong Hoi. The freighters were not attacked.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The North-South Korea nonaggression agreement has implications for Vietnam. Eventually.

First, note the similarities between Pyongyang and Hanoi. Each is dominated by a doctrinaire Communist regime. Neither is known for its ability to bend or give.

Each has serious economic and manpower problems which could be eased only by closer cooperation with the South and with non-Communist neighbors. Each is deathly afraid of domination by China or Russia. Each is attempting to walk a tightrope between those two Red giants. For each, this tightrope walk is made difficult by economic and military dependence, due in large measure to war in Vietnam and tension in Korea. Each wants U.S. troops to go home.

It is not wise to stretch an analogy. Hanoi's rulers are their own men—and fighting a war of this intensity and bitterness this long tends to bind men into rigid patterns.

But the North-South Korean agreements bring to mind a quality for compromise in the attitude of Asian peoples I have known closely over the past years which in the long run bodes well for peace in that part of the world if the proper conditions can be set up. Unfortunately the conditions may take generations.

The limited North-South Korea agreement itself took two decades of uneasy truce. But perhaps in this day time can be telescoped.

This reporter has found among many officials and people in Japan, Korea, Thailand, South Vietnam, both Chinas, Laos and Cambodia a depth of understanding of human qualities and an ability to accommodate with men of strongly different concepts when the time seemed propitious for working agreements.

In my last trip to Seoul, this reporter was repeatedly surprised at finding men in sensitive jobs involving national security in the South Korean government and military who had held high posts in the North Korean Communist government.

I think of one South Korean general officer with whom I talked at length who had in North Korea been one of the most influential men in thought and ideological control. He was later given the task of weeding out untrustworthy types in the higher echelons of the South Korean army.

From what this reporter could determine, this attitude toward former North Korean Communists held true among the most dedicated anti-Communists.

Thus human willingness to accept other Koreans may not lead to unification. But it certainly suggests the North-South nonaggression agreement can be made to hold up and can possibly lead to working arrangements in a wider number of fields.

This, even after taking into account the knowledge that one North Korean objective is certainly the withdrawal of all U.S. troops.

In personal as distinct from public talks in South Vietnam, this reporter has noted among men with responsible positions in the Thieu government a considerable empathy with the peoples of North Vietnam, with whom many are related by blood and marriage. This again, among officials who are strongly anti-Communist. Numbers of these Southern officials have told me they believe that in time some arrangements can be worked out with Northern officials, if they could get together unofficially as men.

Don't expect any quick solution. And the time may not be in this decade. But this reporter believes that some time and some place the human adaptability of the Vietnamese peoples is such that, as in Korea, some working accommodation will be reached. But this perhaps will be some years after the North Vietnamese government becomes convinced it cannot conquer the South by force.

Promises, promises

Voters are continually hearing the candidates for President, senators and representatives make promises to various groups that will be particularly beneficial to them. One doubts that the voters hear these men seeking office propose a law supporting the constitutional form of government and keeping down expenses.

Yet it is these promises that concern most citizens. As long as we had public officials who believed in the Constitution and supported that form of government we were a free and happy people. Now we are worried about how we will buy our food, clothing, etc., with the great inflation we have.

The political leaders sanction unlegalized laws where they are voted by Congress or devised by our courts. Congress could correct this, but they don't. They promote large spending of tax money and when afraid to add more tax they vote additional laws and let the Treasury Department either borrow or print more money. Thus the money you have saved, is devaluated. When this occurs prices go up and the things you buy cost a great deal more.

Still the office seeker looking for votes suggests more ways to spend more money, saying it will be beneficial to a certain group. If you should ask where the money is coming from the politicians will say the rich corporations. This is a lie, for corporations do not pay any tax—they just add the amount of money the government says is due to the cost of their product and the people pay all the tax.

Too many Americans are complacent about what the communists are accomplishing in the way of a strong organization to subjugate the United States. Everyone who wants to keep their liberties should join some particular organization and work to eliminate the socialists from our forms of government, teachers, police, etc.

Freedom is not free—it has to be earned. A big government takes away your freedom. Do we have a big government?

McGovern, angry women

By MARIANNE MEANS
MIAMI BEACH (KFS)—Women's rights advocates are furious with Presidential nominee George McGovern for abandoning their cause at a crucial moment during the Democratic Convention.

McGovern was the only candidate who campaigns as a champion of female equality and as a result has had the support of a majority of women activists.

But now they feel betrayed. When the chips were down, equality for women did not prove as important to McGovern as clinching the nomination. He demonstrated that on this issue—as on an increasing number of others—he will cheerfully forget whenever it seems to conflict with the politically pragmatic course.

Furthermore, the ease with which McGovern did them in is evidence that women as a bloc still lack significant political clout. They are dependent upon the good will of powerful male politicians and they will not stick together for their own cause over other issues.

McGovern was responsible for an embarrassingly big defeat for the National Women's Political Caucus on a symbolic challenge to force the South Carolina delegation to add women to its group in proportion to their share of the state's population.

The challenge may have been only narrowly defeated and provided at least a psychological boost to the women's cause if McGovern had not ordered supporters in three delegations to switch and vote against it. McGovern loyalists in Oregon, Colorado, and Connecticut changed their position in mid-tally and as a result the challenge lost by 126.7 votes.

McGovern dumped the women's cause because he feared that a narrow victory margin would permit Sen. Hubert Humphrey's supporters to raise a potentially damaging procedural question at a time when he was more vulnerable than he would be later in the evening.

Rep. Bella Abzug, chief spokesman for the challenge, was so angry she stalked off the floor, the brim of her big hat flopping in agitation. Later she blamed McGovern's move on his being "too uptight" about the nomination but vowed to "speak to him later about it." She was a New York delegate-at-large pledged to McGovern.

This is the second time in his campaign for the White House that McGovern has disappointed women's rights activists. During the early primaries, he said that he supported liberalized abortion and believed it should be "a matter between a woman and her doctor." But as anti-abortion pressure mounted, he steadily retreated. By the time he hit California, he was saying that abortion is strictly a matter for state legislatures to decide and that he agreed with Humphrey on the subject. Humphrey is almost as fervently opposed to liberalized abortion as is President Nixon.

Women's rights leaders are beginning to wonder if they can count on McGovern to keep his other pledges to them once he is safely in the White House and no longer needs their votes. He has promised to name a woman to the Cabinet, the first vacancy on the Supreme Court, the National Security Council, and the Chief Ambassadorship to the United Nations. He has also promised to fight for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, child care legislation and other measures of importance to women.

But he had also promised to support the effort of women to win proportional representation on convention delegations, in accord with the new reform rules He told the National Women's Political Caucus that the South Carolina challenge had his "full and unequivocal support." That was 11 hours before he sold them out.

O'Brien talks of broken promises

By RALPH de TOLEDANO

There has been considerable consternation among many Democrats over the speech which Lawrence F. O'Brien, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, delivered to his party's convention. Republicans were delighted, and you can bet your top or bottom dollar that as the campaign progresses, they will quote O'Brien's address widely and repeatedly. For, read carefully, it is an attack on Democratic Presidential candidates. And it undercuts all the charges against the Nixon administration that Democratic speechwriters have been carefully preparing.

Speaking quietly and with deliberation, Chairman O'Brien attacked what he called "the standard old political remedy: 'Send a Democrat to the White House. Throw out Mr. Nixon and his Republican friends, and your problems will be over.'" Such a message, he said, "Would have two weaknesses: It wouldn't be true. And nobody would believe it."

But that has been Sen. George McGovern's platform—or at least his campaign oratory. He has been vague on details but prodigal with his promises. Basically, he has been telling the voters that if President Nixon is thrown out, he will bring utopia to the American people. No war, no unemployment, a chicken in every pot for the poor, lower taxes, more welfare, and a reduced budget deficit. That has been the McGovern promise.

But those dazzling promises, O'Brien pointed out, cannot be "delivered by man, God, or the Democratic Party." The Democrats have "lacked the courage to say this. Instead, we have promised something to everybody, and then hoped that no one would keep score." But, he added, the people "can keep score. And they aren't easily fooled."

But his indictment of the Democratic Party went far beyond this.

The Democrats, he said sternly, "have shortchanged (the people) in terms of specific accomplishments—jobs, houses, schools, safe streets—and have lost much of their trust along the way. Now we must stop kidding the American people. We must tell them the truth, I recognize, of course, that this idea runs counter to the whole history of American political talk . . . We cannot abolish poverty with a stroke of the pen . . . We cannot end unemployment with a stroke of the pen . . . if anybody tells you differently, don't believe him. Not even if he's a Democrat. There is no easy escape from the burdens that must be assumed by every citizen if we are to have a decent society."

But that, of course, is the whole ball game. Democratic Presidents have always claimed that all problems could be eliminated with the stroke of a pen—or a new law or a bigger appropriation. With the stroke of a pen, give every man, woman, and child $1,000. Or redistribute the national income. Or end the Vietnam war. But when O'Brien says it can't be done—and when he is speaking as chairman of the Democratic National Committee—what does this do to his party's charges that President Nixon has failed to remedy problems that have plagued this country for decades, even centuries.

With his "war on poverty," Lyndon Johnson "promised something to everybody"—and brought us runaway inflation. But when McGovern promises to end that inflation, will his speeches stand the test of Chairman O'Brien's strictures? When he promises to bring back our prisoners of war within 30 days after his inauguration, is he "leveling with the American people" as O'Brien demanded that Democratic candidates do? Senator McGovern does not have the vaguest idea whether or not he can free the Vietnam POWs in 30, 60, or 360 days—or ever. When he says that he will go to Hanoi and "beg," does he really believe that he could—or would—do it?

The Republicans will have a field day with the O'Brien speech to the Democratic convention. And if, by some wild chance, McGovern should take it to heart, will he tour the country saying that the Democratic platform is just a scrap of paper? Those who gave his primary campaigns their muscle will not tolerate this. They want answers and action yesterday for today's problems. The fact is that Chairman O'Brien opened a Pandora's box for his party—and one wonders why.

Spec. 4 John J. Underhile has recently returned to his Army base in Berlin, Germany, after spending a 30-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Underhile, and other relatives in this area.
Underhile enlisted in the Army in August 1971 and took his basic training at Fort Lewis, Wash. after which he was assigned to Germany.
ROCHELLE—Sgt. Stephen R. Troop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Troop, recently completed four years service in the U.S. Air Force and has returned to civilian life.
While in the Air Force, Troop was trained as an air traffic control specialist and last served in that capacity at Ubon Royal Thai AFB, Thailand, with a unit of the Air Force Communications Service.
Using off-duty time, he took advantage of Air Force-offered opportunities to further his education by attending classes in psychology at the University of Texas and in political science at New Mexico State University.
He plans to work in criminal justice administration. A 1966 graduate of Rochelle Township High School, he attended Western Illinois University, Macomb.
His wife, JoNell, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stewart, Alamogordo, N.M.

Polo activities

POLO — The Past Matron's Club of the Corinthian Chapter of the Eastern Star will meet July 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the Rotary Hall. Mrs. Marie Young will be the hostess.
Tuesday the children of the Midweek Summer Program of the Polo United Methodist Church will be taking a trip to the Polo Continental Manor Nursing Home.
The program will begin at 1 p.m. instead of 1:30 p.m. and will end at 3 p.m., as usual. The fifth and sixth graders are invited to take their bikes and ride them to the Manor.
A coffee prayer was held at the home of Mrs. Fern Dempsey, Polo, for the Dixon Area Christian Women's Club, which will have its regular dinner meeting July 19, at 1 p.m. at Emerald Hill Country Club, near Sterling.
Those attending were: Mrs. Len Huff, Mrs. Dan Fierheller, Mrs. Lula Plum, Verna Dentler, Mrs. Neva Baker, Mrs. Lem Osterhout, Mrs. Everett Webster, Mrs. Russell

Shoemaker, Mrs. Russell Higley, Mrs. Clifford Miller, Mrs. Ted Lord, Mrs. Vernon Good, Mrs. Esther Travis, Mrs. Inez Kline, Mrs. Walter Schmidt, Mrs. Leland Hummel Sr., and Mrs. Madge Wallis, who was the leader, from Dixon.
The Buntjer reunion will be held July 23, at noon at the White Pines State Park. Those attending are asked to take their own beverage, meat and a dish to pass.
Kiwanis to meet
MT. MORRIS—The Mt. Morris Kiwanis Club will meet at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday in the American Legion Home. Greg Davis, Mt. Morris, a Vietnam War veteran, will present the program.
The Alpha Book Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Everett Bakener, with Mrs. Conrad Jecklin presiding. Ten members were present. There was a social hour, business meeting and book exchange.

Fishing comeback on Great Lakes seen

TORONTO (AP) — Canadian fisherman Goring Ball gave up his trade a decade ago after pollution killed off the catch. Now he believes recent efforts to clean up the Great Lakes may allow him to put out his nets once more.

Ball, a commercial operator from Niagara on the Lake, Ont., sold his boat and went to work as a laborer in 1962 after accepting the fact Lake Ontario simply had no more fish. "But with all this pollution cleanup and surveys, maybe they'll come back," he says.

Scientists are beginning to share his optimism. Those who spoke with a Canadian Press reporter are convinced that joint U.S.-Canadian moves to combat pollution will purify the lakes sufficiently in the next five or six years so that fish can be restocked—and survive.

The five lakes extending 1,610 miles across the United States and Canada are called freshwater bodies. But years of uncontrolled waste discharges have taken their toll.

Lake Erie is almost dead, covered with algae that eat up life-giving oxygen. Lake Ontario is suffering early symptoms of the same disease. The two northern lakes, Superior and Huron, are large enough to remain relatively clean. Lake Michigan, which lies entirely within the United States, is badly polluted.

Environmental experts maintain they can clean the lakes with money, tougher laws and more research. They can even "turn the clock back on Lake Erie," says James Bruce, head of the Canada Center for Inland Waters.

This endeavor at Burlington, Ont., was set up to develop ways to fight water pollution. Its 350 researchers study heat and waste discharges, oil and chemical spills, and make surveys of economic and geographic factors affecting water management. They are trying to find ways of dredging lake and river beds without disturbing contaminants such as mercury that are embedded in the sediments.

The scientists received a big boost in April, when the U.S.-Canadian water-quality agreement was signed. The United States pledged $2 billion and Canada $500 million to fight pollution, a move that should help transfer some of the center's plans from the drawing boards to the lakes.

The agreement laid down stringent limits on the amount of phosphates that can flow into the Great Lakes. The discharge has already been cut by as much as 75 per cent in some large cities such as Detroit, and the loads entering the lower two lakes, Erie and Ontario, will be halved within three or four years.

The International Field Year for the Great Lakes, a $15-million scientific program to study the water chain, also is under way. The independently-run program involving 600 scientists, engineers, surveyors and technicians is seeking new information that will help clean up Lake Ontario.

Canadian officials report industry has spent $214 million in 15 years to control pollution but say at least $300 million more is needed. James Auld, Ontario's environment minister, said this country's faltering economy is slowing antipollution efforts. He predicts little improvement unless business picks up. He suggests government financial incentives might help.

Even if efforts to halt industrial pollution succeed, the Great Lakes face another problem: a growing population that takes to the beach on weekends may overwhelm the lakes' natural resources and force officials to close recreation areas to preserve them.

"Many areas simply can't stand intensive human activity," says Dr. Terry Lee, head of the social science division at the Center for Inland Waters.

He believes the Great Lakes basin, with one-third of Ontario's population and 43 per cent of its industry, will have to be strictly managed if it is to survive future growth. Otherwise the few beaches and parks available to average citizens could be defoliated. City dwellers flocking to the lakeshore could find themselves locked out by industrial and residential developments.

The present condition of two of the four Great Lakes inside Canada is far from pristine, and hardly suitable for recreation.

More than 30,000 tons of phosphates are pumped annually into Lake Erie. Sixty billion pounds of solid wastes discharge each year into the Detroit River, which flows into Erie.

Three years ago, heavy oil and grease discharges into the river made it a giant sewer and allowed oxygen-eating algae to flourish in the lake.

The algae sank to the center of Erie's 6,300 square miles in late summer and decomposed, releasing more phosphates and gobbling up more oxygen. The result was the disaster called eutrophication, in which oxygen was insufficient to maintain plant and fish life.

Under the new U.S.-Canadian agreement, phosphate inputs will be cut in half by 1976, to 16,000 tons annually. Ontario municipal discharges will be reduced by 80 per cent next year; in Ohio, Cleveland will achieve a like rate by 1974 and Toledo will follow suit the following year. Detroit is scheduled for 90 per cent removal by 1975.

Erie's poor health is infecting its sickly cousin, the 7,300 square miles of Lake Ontario. Algae cling to Ontario beaches from Toronto to Hamilton and phosphate input is far too heavy at 18,000 tons a year. The lake's sediments show high mercury levels. Sewage from communities along the Niagara River is causing serious contamination. Traces of arsenic, cadmium, chromium, cobalt, copper and vanadium have been discovered. There are indications of lead pollution.

Under the joint agreement, steps are being taken to solve the problem. All lakeshore communities in Ontario have installed sewage treatment facilities; their phosphate inputs will be cut by 80 per cent by 1973. Rochester, N.Y., must remove 90 per cent of its phosphates from sewage by 1976. Similar reductions are planned at other U.S. cities.

The phosphate reduction program for Lake Erie, which supplies 33 per cent of Lake Ontario's algae-producing nutrients, also will help.

Pollution in Lake Superior comes mainly from pulp and paper mills on the Canadian shore and iron ore operations at Duluth, Minn. The contamination is localized because the lake extends 31,000 square miles with an average depth of 487 feet. It's massive enough to remain almost crystal clear.

Lake Huron to the south, 8,000 square miles smaller than Superior, is large enough to stay clear, too, although it also has pollution problems. Nine hundred tons of phosphates a year come into the lake at Saginaw, Mich. and hundreds of tons flow north from polluted Lake Michigan.

Trauma center signs placed on Illinois freeways

SPRINGFIELD—New informational signs directing motorists to the nearest hospitals with trauma centers for emergency medical care are being placed along freeways at various locations in Illinois, according to Transportation Secretary William F. Cellini.

The signs are approximately five by ten feet in size and bear the legend in white letters on a blue background, "HOSPITAL TRAUMA CENTER," and the direction, such as "NEXT RIGHT." In addition to the signs along the freeways, other signs identified by a large "H" are spaced along the roads and streets which will continue routing motorists to the hospitals with trauma center facilities.

The trauma center concept has been developed to provide a coordinated network of approximately 40 specially staffed and equipped hospital emergency rooms.

Price-Moats marriage ceremony

MR. AND MRS. C. DANIEL MOATS

Miss Marilyn Christine Price, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wilmoth C. Price, Milwaukee, Wis., exchanged marriage vows with Clinton Daniel Moats, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Moats, Dixon, at 2 p.m. July 8 in the Church of the Brethren.

The double-ring wedding was performed by the Rev. William K. Burgess, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Willis Dixon, pastor of the First Church of the Open Bible.

Nuptial Music

Mrs. Esther Stein, organist, accompanied Larry Kerley as he sang "I'll Walk Beside Thee," "Because," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer," and three altar arrangements of aqua and white carnations, chrysanthemums, gladioli and leather-leaf fern trimmed with aqua bows, were flanked by lighted tapers in candelabras. Bows of white ribbon and white-rose garlands were attached to the sanctuary pews.

The bride's floor-length gown, fashioned of white satin and trimmed with Chantilly and Alencon lace, combined a floor-length skirt accented by rhinestone-embroidered lace and a cathedral train, and an empire bodice featuring a lace wedding-ring collar and bishop sleeves ending in wide, lace cuffs. A pearl crown encircled by nylon petals edged with rhinestones held her full-length veil of illusion bordered with scalloped lace. The bride's gown, headpiece and veil were fashioned by her mother, and the silver and diamond heart-shaped pendant she wore was a gift from the bridegroom. The nosegay she carried as she was escorted to the altar by her father, combined stephanotis, baby's breath and foliage.

Miss Annette Price, who was her sister's maid of honor, was attired in a moss-green full-length knit gown styled with an empire bodice encircled at the waistline by aqua velvet. Her headress was a veiled aqua bow-trimmed bandeau, and she carried a nosegay of aqua and white carnations edged with aqua net.

Identically-styled gowns of aqua knit with moss-green waistline insertions were worn with veiled moss-green velvet headresses by the attendants, Miss Sharis Bourdeaux, Beloit, Wis.; Mrs. Rodney Martin, Rochelle; Miss Lynn Peacock and Mrs. Leo Miller Jr., and their flowers were nosegays of aqua and white carnations encircled with moss-green net.

Flower Girl

The ceremonial flower girl, Miss Sandy Martin, daughter of Rodney Martins, Rochelle, wore a long frock of floral aqua batiste designed with an empire bodice encircled by a moss-green velvet sash. Her wrist corsage of aqua carnations was tied with moss-green ribbon, and aqua carnation petals filled the green basket she carried.

Silver lace and braid trimmed the aqua knit A-line dress worn with silver accessories and a silver bandeau by Mrs. Price for her daughter's wedding, and the bridegroom's mother selected a sparkling-green empire dress and white accessories. Their flowers were corsages of white carnations centered by aqua rosebuds.

Lawrence L. Moats was his brother's best man, and serving as groomsmen were Charles Endress, Pearl City, William Yaney Jr., Churubusco, Ind.; Leo Miller Jr., and Richard Boyer. Ushers for the ceremony were Charles Padgett, Sterling, and Dr. Thomas Cline, and participating as ringbearer was Philip Gibbs, son of Mrs. Dorothy Gibbs, Sycamore.

Aqua and white streamers and white bells decorated the church fellowship hall, where a reception was held following the service. Mrs. Fred Padgett was in charge of floral decorations, and a tiered cake was served by Mrs. Lucille Peacock and Mrs. Padgett, as coffee, punch and cookies were served by Mrs. William Thompson, Mrs. Richard Boyer and Mrs. Rene Colin.

Mrs. Leonard Ackland and Mrs. Gibbs were assisted at the gift table by Miss Debra Eckhart and Rodney Martin, and Miss Brenda Harden registered guests from Dixon, DeKalb, Rochelle, Sycamore, Macomb, Elgin, Chicago, Belvidere, Sterling, Rockford and from Milwaukee, Wis., and cities in Florida, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Miller Sr., served as hosts; Mrs. William K. Burgess acted as the bride's wedding assistant, and reception music was provided by Mrs. William Dixon, organist.

To California

For their wedding trip to San Francisco, Calif., and other western coast areas, the bride wore a pastel-blue and white coat and dress ensemble with white accessories and a white-rose corsage. A graduate of Springfield High School and Evangel College, Springfield, Mo., she received a bachelor of science degree in education at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, where she was a member of Phi Beta Lambda and Pi Omega Pi.

A Dixon High School graduate, Mr. Moats earned a B.S. degree at Manchester College, North Manchester, Ind., and both are members of the National and Illinois Education Associations, National and Illinois Business Education Associations and the Dixon Teachers' Association.

Mrs. Moats is employed as a business education instructor at Dixon High School, where her husband teaches business courses, and he also instructs classes at Sauk Valley College.

COULD THIS POSSIBLY BE A DREAM?

BETWEEN

LOOK AT WHAT I'M STANDING BETWEEN!

by Marcia Course

... for and about women

Round and round they go, stripes from hips to ankles, in brilliant shades of red, gold and green, attached to a black sweaters top (left). Mitered striped top (right) looks like two layers, but the solid open-work sleeves and striped turtleneck are actually attached to the striped body. Wide-legged trousers have stitched-down cuffs. Both ankle-length dress and pants are in wool knit. (Designed by Gianni Ferri for Banff.)

Betty Canary

I have petitioned the Olympics Committee to add a new competition to the games, because I am sure that every day I am feeding the world's champion eating team.

It isn't that I mind so much what they eat at regular meals. It's the thousand dollars of groceries they consume between meals I mind.

Truthfully, I don't care how much they eat at any time—just so long as I don't have to watch them eat it.

We have a sort of a standing offer at our house. If you've stopped turning your bowl over on your head, you may move in to the dining room.

This rule is a result of reasoning. I reason that a child learns good manners by observing adults. I reason that a child listening to interesting conversation soon joins in with some interesting remarks of his own.

With a first-born child it works fairly well. He gnaws on his fist and listens to mommy and daddy discuss his obvious intelligence.

As more children arrive, the reasoning slackens. One simply seems to lose the knack for it.

Mealtime conversation around a family table soon includes no remarks about summer opera, no avid political discussions, very little comment on current events. It settles down to a somewhat desultory listing of dos and don'ts.

As do most women, I, at least, still try being specific. "Don't stir it with your finger!" I say. "Do come out from under the chair until you've finished with the pudding," I suggest. "Don't lather your mashed potatoes over your meat loaf!" I say.

Most men, I've discovered, abandon method and simply glare about the table and occasionally shout a general, "Stop that, dammit!"

Children seldom contribute anything to the table conversation. At some point—such as after returning a chicken bone that has been slipped into my water glass—I explain that good manners means helping others be comfortable. That's what I say. They say, "Any more cauliflower? That all the roast?" (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Questers tour cottage in Rockford

Members of the Questers Club Hi-You-He-He Chapter recently toured Rockford's historical Tinker Cottage constructed by Robert Hall Tinker, who came to Rockford from New York at the age of 19.

He accepted a position in Rockford with William A. Knowlton, business agent for Mrs. Mary Manny, a widow whose wealth was derived from the manufacture of a combined mower and reaper invented by her husband.

Mr. Tinker traveled extensively through the United States and Europe, and in 1862 he brought back his own blueprints for a Swiss chalet. Tinker Swiss Cottage was built in 1865 on a picturesque limestone bluff overlooking Kent Creek.

The hexagonal library in the cottage is copied after Sir Walter Scott's library in Abbotsford, Scotland, and contains a spiral stairway leading to a balcony.

It was Mr. Tinker's desire that the cottage and its contents be preserved for the enjoyment of Rockford citizens. Mrs. Tinker transferred the real estate to the Rockford Park Board in 1926, and the cottage contents to the board of trustees in 1937.

Following the tour, chapter members were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stone.

For the next chapter meeting on July 23, members will meet at 1 p.m. at the residence of Mrs. Earl Weber, where transportation will be arranged for a trip to Mendota to tour the Time Was Museum.

Miss Harris participates in scouting event

Senior Girl Scout Denise Ann Harris, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harris Dixon, is presently participating in a "Girl Scout Wider Opportunity." Denise is one of 36 national selectees to "Dig Mankind" sponsored by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. at National Center West, Ten Sleep, Wyo.

The event is an archeological exploration of the area, and the girls will learn to conduct a "dig," catalog artifacts, prepare maps and field trail legends, and become familiar with museum practices. The program is being conducted in cooperation with the University of Wyoming's Department of Anthropology.

The session started July 9 and will conclude July 21. The participants, all girls from 14-17 in age, will be living in tents at the western campsite during this time.

Miss Harris will be in the 11th grade at Dixon High School this fall. Her prior Girl Scout experiences, including established camp and troop trip camping, have prepared her for this new adventure in the American West.

Safety play cinches slam

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Jim: "We haven't written about safety plays for a long time. Why don't we discuss them this week?"

Oswald: "Why not? Let's start with a standard one. South considers bidding seven spades, but decides against it on the theory that if North holds the queen of spades in addition to his aces and king he will bid the grand slam himself. He wins the opening heart lead and is pleased to see that his restraint was the correct action."

Jim: "If South is at all careless he will lead a low trump to dummy's ace at trick two. East will show out and South will have to lose two trumps and his slam."

Oswald: "It is bad luck to find all four trumps gathered together in the wrong hand but it does happen. If South knows about safety plays he has a perfect one at his disposal here."

Jim: "He simply lays down his king of trumps at trick two. If both opponents follow he can't lose two trump tricks. If East shows out he can now hold West to one trump trick; if West shows out he can handle East's case."

Oswald: "This safety play costs little. South wins all the tricks any time the queen of trumps drops on the first or second trump lead."

Anniversary open house

The 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McBride will be celebrated at an open house planned for 7 p.m. Saturday in their home at 807 College Ave.

The former Miss Mary Nagy and Mr. McBride were married July 12, 1947 in the rectory of St. Patrick's Catholic Church by the Rev. Thomas Walsh, and were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nagy, Dixon, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Smith, Rochelle. Participating as flower girl was Mrs. Max Hobbs, Amboy.

Mrs. McBride is employed by Sears Roebuck and Company, and Mr. McBride is an employee of the Medusa Portland Cement Company.

The anniversary open house will be hosted by the honorees' four children, Mr. and Mrs. Michael McBride, Hauchuca City, Ariz., where Mr. McBride is stationed with the Army; Mr. and Mrs. David Needham, Dixon, and Susan, Timothy and Julie, who reside with their parents. The McBride's also have four grandsons.

Friends and relatives of the honored couple are invited to attend the anniversary open house, and the omission of gifts is requested.

Thanks, dear. Your Loving Husband (But Not Enough)
How about it, Ann. Is it funny?—Paradise, Calif.

Dear Paradise: Yes, it's funny, but like a great deal that passes for humor, I sense a lot of kidding on the square.

Dear Ann Landers: Since your column appears in the Rapid City Journal we feel that you are a member of our community. Will you please give us a hand? As you know, the people in Rapid City are trying hard to recover from the worst disaster ever experienced in this 10-state area. Almost every family in town has lost relatives, friends, property and possessions not covered by insurance.

The major industry in the Black Hills is the tourist business. Almost all our local people are dependent, either directly or indirectly, on the tourists who visit Mt. Rushmore and the Black Hills in July and August. If the tourists stay away, the financial impact of the flood will be multiplied many times.

The people of western South Dakota are more interested in having an opportunity to continue earning a living than in receiving massive doses of federal aid. Please, Ann, tell the world that the Black Hills are as beautiful as ever. None of the major tourist attractions was damaged by the flood. Fewer than one per cent of the motels, resorts and campgrounds were in the flood area. Tourists will also find the local people as friendly and helpful as in the past.—J. W. H., President, National College of Business

Dear J.W.H.: I have visited in Rapid City and loved it. Here is your letter with an added word from me to all of you who

Miss McGrath, Michael Rock plan wedding

MISS JAYNE McGRATH

STERLING—Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. McGrath, Sterling, announce the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter, Jayne, to Michael Rock, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Rock, Dixon.

Miss McGrath, who attended Sauk Valley College, is an employee of the United Bank of Denver in Denver, Colo., where she is also enrolled at Metropolitan State College.

A graduate of Sauk Valley College and a Vietnam veteran, Mr. Rock is a senior psychology major at Metropolitan State College, and will graduate in August. He is also employed by the Adams County Center for the Retarded in Denver.

Their wedding is being planned for Aug. 22 in St. Malo Chapel, located in the Colorado Rocky Mountains near Estes Park.

Meeting for Palmyra Unit and 4-H club

A meeting for the Palmyra Homemakers Extension Unit is planned for 1:15 p.m. Thursday in Loveland Community House when members of the Palmyra Pixies 4-H Club will present their achievement program.

KSB Auxiliary board meeting

The KSB Hospital Auxiliary board of directors will meet at 1 p.m. Thursday in the hospital dining room for doctors.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE U-537: Danny Landness, aged 2½, is the only child of Karolyn and Conrad.

His parents realized they often got irritable and might scold Danny unduly.

So they made a rule that when Daddy came home from the office, tired and short-tempered, then Mamma would play with Danny and look after him.

But if mamma were tense and irate from her heavy day's work, then Daddy would take over.

But one night both Daddy and Mamma were unduly irritable.

So Danny picked up his little 3-legged stool; took it over to Mamma's chair and placed it at her feet.

Then he sat down and looked up at her, wondering.

"What's your problem?" he asked her.

Well, both Mamma and Daddy had to smile at his assumption of the psychiatrists' role, so the tension was instantly broken. They both played with Danny till time to tuck him into bed.

But I mention this case to show that kiddies very early can surmise tension in their adult environment.

While I was directing our Psychology Laboratory at Northwestern University, I was a guest of one of Chicago's leading surgeons.

Since he had spent a heavy day at Wesley Hospital, performing four major operations, he was tired.

So he "barked" at his 12-year-old son a couple of times.

One of his son's school pals was visiting in the home at that moment.

"What's wrong with your Dad?" he furtively inquired.

"Oh, he's just in one of his moods," replied the son.

"Tomorrow he'll be all right again!"

A Chicago Domestic Relations Court Judge once asked me what I thought about delaying a divorce where both parents were feuding and quarreling.

"Dr. Crane," he inquired, "does it do more harm to the youngsters to let them live in such a home than to grant a divorce to the parents?"

So I agreed to make a survey of a number of children in homes where divorce was imminent.

And almost without exception the children voted against having their parents separate!

When I asked for their specific reasons, they said they didn't want their classmates to know that "Daddy doesn't live with us any more."

Besides, children, even in the best homes, will feud and quarrel and even resort to fist fights almost every day.

Youngsters thus are accustomed to such conflicts among themselves so they apparently become acclimated to such feuding between their parents.

Some of these kiddies whose parents had already obtained a divorce, then told me:

"We invite the other kids to come over to play with us during the daytime."

"But we don't want them here at night, for then they'd wonder why Daddy doesn't live with us anymore!"

Grammar schoolers thus are still quite sensitive to such social attitudes of their playmates.

To reduce parental quarrels, send for my "Tests for Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Many PTA and PTO groups use them for a monthly discussion clinic!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

The Doctor Says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like some information on seasickness. How does one know if this is caused by an inner ear problem or just a matter of getting used to sea travel or ship motion? I have experienced the same motion sickness doing exercises. Is one medicine better than another for this? Also, is the continual use of such medicines as Marezine bad for one's system, let's say on a 30- to 45-day trip? Any information on this would be appreciated. I know many people suffer from this and yet love to travel by sea.

Dear Reader—Motion sickness isn't confined to sea travel. Hypersensitive individuals may have similar problems during air travel or in an automobile. Any exercises which cause excessive motion of the head, particularly some of the gadgets that induce swinging motion to the side or up and down, can cause this problem.

Motion sickness is caused by the inner ear. We have three little circular canals inside each ear which serve as a balance mechanism. Literally, they measure the displacement of the head in any direction. When you're spinning around and around, these little canals perceive the movement and send a signal to the brain. If a person has poor tolerance to this, he will get motion sickness.

This reaction occurs in most normal people if there is enough motion. You can become conditioned to motion so it is not quite so bad. This is what happens with a prolonged sea voyage. The main difficulty occurs the first few days because these sensitive balance mechanisms are receiving a lot more stimulus than usual. After the body adapts to this, there may be no significant dizziness. After a long sea voyage, some individuals will develop motion sickness after they get on land.

This is because the stimulus is decreased. It's the change in the stimulus of motion that really causes the problem.

The important thing about taking medicine for motion sickness is to take the medicine before the attack strikes and not after it has already happened. In other words, the medicine works better to prevent the problem than to cure it. For airplane trips and short periods, obviously, the medicine would be used before the trip and would usually solve the problem. For longer trips, one might need to take the medicine for the duration of the trip itself. For long sea voyages that you mentioned, I don't think you'd really need it except for the first several days.

Marezine, which you mentioned, is one of the popular medicines used to prevent motion sickness and is highly satisfactory. Dramamine and Bonine are similar medicines that are commonly used. If a person takes a very large dose, he may notice some drowsiness and dryness of the mouth. These are the principal complications. These medicines have been shown to have some adverse effects on a developing fetus in animals when given in large doses far above the level commonly used to prevent motion sickness. Nevertheless, it would be wise for a pregnant woman to be sure to check with her obstetrician before she takes any of these medicines that might be available to her. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Water supply okayed

COLUMBIA, Ill. (AP) — Residents of Columbia were told Sunday afternoon they could again use city water for drinking and cooking as tests showed no further contamination.

Late Thursday night the residents were advised to boil the water because the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency found traces of bacteria in it. It was the apparent result of filling a water tank too soon after it had been repainted on the inside.

The water in the city lines was flushed and the water in the storage tank treated with chlorine. Results of other tests were returned to the city Sunday.

Report thefts

A Rock Falls man, William Kinzer, reported to Dixon Police the theft of 20 tapes and a Ross portable four-band radio from his car, parked in front of his place of employment on the 300 block of West First Street.

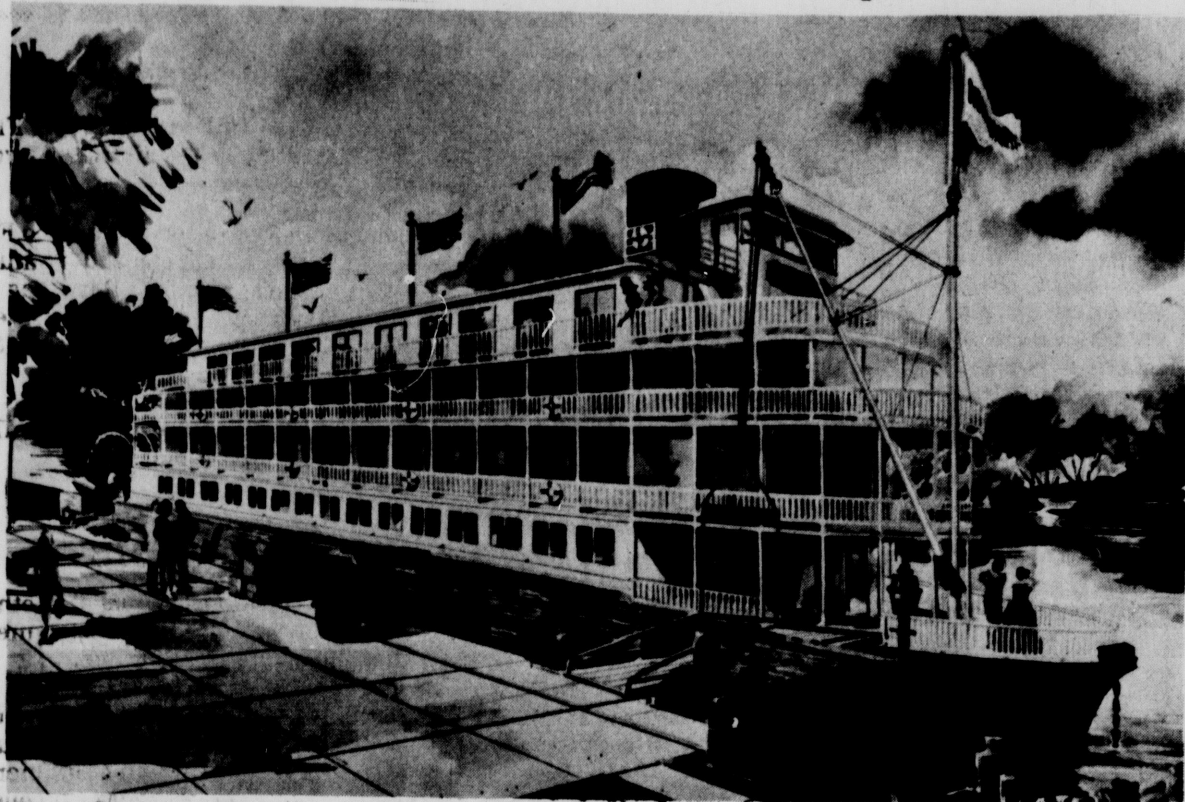

The car's right vent window was broken in the theft.

Robert Eberly, Hotel Dixon, reported the theft of two fishing rods with Zebco 31 reels on them, valued at $75.

Eberly told Dixon Police the reels were taken from his car, parked across from the hotel, sometime Friday night.

Probe accident, burglaries

Dixon Police investigated an accident which occurred Saturday on North Galena Avenue at the entrance to the Eagle Food Store parking lot.

Peggy S. Hayes, 18, 422 Brooks Place, pulled out of the parking lot into the path of a car driven by Leslie D. Payne, 17, 214 E. Seventh St., which was traveling north on Galena. Following the impact, the Hayes car spun around and came to rest at the corner of Graham Street.

Miss Hayes was ticketed for failure to yield.

A burglary which occurred Sunday at an apartment above Walt's Tap, 318 W. First St., is still being investigated by Dixon Police.

Debbie Walters, granddaughter of Mrs. Agnes Walters, the tenant, surprised two male subjects as they were coming out of the apartment, causing them to flee.

She described them to police as being both of medium height, with long, dark hair. One was reportedly bearded, and both wore blue jeans and dark T-shirts.

An undetermined amount of cash was taken from a jar in the apartment.

Dixon Police are also investigating a reported burglary attempt at an apartment at 310 1/2 W. First St., above Otto's Tap.

DELTA QUEEN at Peoria Friday to race with the Julia Belle Swain but its competitor didn't get up steam so the race was not held. (Telegraph Photo)

The Delta Queen! The name brings a picture to mind. The beautiful sternwheeler churning her way up the broad Mississippi from the heart of Dixie to the far reaches of the north, her giant paddlewheel beating the river waters into calm submission.

The mighty boat still travels the great river and its tributaries, touching more than 100 river towns along the way—Chattanooga, Hannibal, St. Louis, Vicksburg, Natchez and New Orleans—names that ring with Civil War importance. When you enter the fabulous riverboat even today, you step back into time.

As new shoreline vistas continuously unfold for the lucky passengers of the Delta Queen, new recreational vistas daily unfold at The New Landing for the Delta Queen, the recreational community built as a tribute to the most elegant and expensive paddlewheeler in history. The community is being developed by New Landing, Inc., a subsidiary of Neuland Development, Inc. It will board a clubhouse replica of the paddlewheeler Delta Queen. Great care will be taken in the construction of the clubhouse to recreate the feeling of the original boat, with parts actually salvaged from "the Queen's" sister ship. The boat is being recreated with the permission of the owners and operators of the original Delta Queen, Greene Line Steamers, Inc.

From a vantage point on the broad decks of the clubhouse you'll see the tennis courts, sails on small boats fluttering in the breeze, canoe paddles flashing in the sun, enthusiastic anglers hauling in their catches, and youngsters squealing with delight off sandy beaches. A golf course adjoins the development and hikers and cyclists enjoy the many trails. The terrain at The New Landing is much like the land along the Mississippi—some rolling, some flat, some rocky and jutting, with interesting cave and rock formations. Snowmobile trails are being planned at the perimeter of the development to provide winter-time excitement. Inside the riverboat facade will be a glass-enclosed swimming pool that can be observed from all three decks, sauna baths, a completely outfitted gym, bowling alleys, shops, private meeting rooms for members' use, cocktail lounges and game rooms. An ice-skating rink and warming house will be part of the Delta Queen clubhouse complex and will help provide year-round recreational fun. Green areas at The New Landing for the Delta Queen which will be used by all residents for picnic and community gatherings are named for famous ports of call on the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers and their tributaries. The roads that wind throughout the 1700 scenic rolling acres are named for famous rivers in America—Missouri, Kaskascia, Miami, Yazoo and Monongahela.

Wreck at Pines Park

OREGON — Ogle County Sheriff's Police investigated an accident early Sunday evening at the White Pines Park. An auto driven by Carol J. Anderson, 16, Polo, bumped the left side of a parked car belonging to Michael D. Knott, 24, Elgin. The auto was in the parking area between the first and second floors.

The incident occurred as the Polan was backing out. Damage to the Knott car was estimated at $60 and to the Anderson vehicle, $30. No tickets were issued.

Liquor arrests

Paw Paw Police took two youths into custody Sunday, both accused of possession of liquor as a minor.

Charged were Barney Kittleman and Terry Wayne Rachas, both 17, of Paw Paw. Police confiscated a quantity of beer and wine.

Fall victim in serious condition

Mrs. Elaine Perlman, 44, 934 Manor Dr., Wilmette, remains in serious condition in the Intensive Care Unit of KSB Hospital. Mrs. Perlman was injured in a 30-foot fall from a bluff at White Pines State Park July 10.

Steward, Sublette burglaries

Two hogs and 10 bags of feed pellets, each weighing 50 pounds, were reported taken in a weekend theft from the Ralph Norris farm, rural Steward. The incident remains under investigation by Lee County Deputies.

Also under investigation by deputies was the reported theft of four tires and approximately $50 in currency and change from Vaessen Bros. Chevrolet Sales, Sublette. Burglars kicked in an office door on the west side of the building to gain entry, deputies said. The money was taken from a vending machine in the office. Value of the new tires, stored in a rear room, was not known.

Bagpipe dirge for Frasier's burial ritual

LAGUNA HILLS, Calif. (AP) Frasier, the aged lion whose sexual prowess brought him nationwide fame, was buried to the wail of bagpipes on a knoll overlooking his domain.

Killed members of the Scottish clan Fraser, which had adopted Frasier as a mascot, accompanied the huge wooden coffin to the grave Saturday and performed traditional funeral rites.

Watching the ceremony were dozens of visitors to the 500-acre Lion Country Safari wildlife preserve, where Frasier spent his last two years after being bought from a Mexican circus.

Frasier's 20-odd lion years were the equivalent of 80 human years. He leaves seven widows—two of them pregnant—and 35 children and a grandchild born a few days ago.

The contrast between Frasier's battered appearance and his sexual proclivities received wide attention. He earned Father of the Year awards, was pictured on watches and T-shirts and became the namesake of a drink containing passion fruit.

Though toothless, scarred and sometimes unable to walk unaided, Frasier was healthy until shortly before he died of pneumonia Thursday, veterinarians said.

Legion smothers Thomson nine- 20-1

The Dixon American Legion baseball team, still smarting from being refused a spot in the Freeport tournament, unleashed five home runs, taking its anger out on hapless Thomson Sunday.

JEFF HUFFMAN

Jeff Huffman led the way for the Dixon squad, going four-for-five, including two homers. Dixon pounded out 19 hits in taking a smooth 20-1 victory.

While Huffman, Chuck Webster, Rick Shroyer and John Preston were hitting the fences, pitcher Joe Fichter managed to mow down the hosts, allowing only three hits. The talented right-handed hurler had a perfect game until the sixth inning, when a throwing error by Stan Curtis and two singles pushed Thomson's only run across the plate.

Fichter allowed a double in the eighth, but the runner was stranded.

Dixon had its big rallies in fifth and seventh innings. The winners managed five runs in the fifth frame, and added six in the seventh, mostly on home runs over Thomson's short left field fence.

Stables alone atop the girls' softball standings

Pony-Tail League

In Girl's Softball League action Saturday first-baseman Diane Diney pounded out a long two-run homer in the top of the 7th with two outs to tie the score and then three straight Nagy-Wentling errors led to a 14-13 Stable victory. Gay Pettenger and Cindy Swanson drove in the deciding runs with singles.

The win put Stables all alone in first place with two games to go—one against Strub's Thursday and one against Raynor Friday. Their hitting attack was led by Kelly Beard with four hits, while teammates Karla Nagy and Gay Pettenger added three hits each.

The losers were paced by Terri Van Kirk, Mary Gridley, Kathy Keller, Joan Meling, and Davonna Miller with three hits each. Gridley and Sue Ruffini had first-inning homeruns for Nagy-Wentling.

Thomas Construction made short work of Anstead's with a 19-3 win in four innings.

Amy Hufford and Sandy Rakowski had three hits each for the winners while Donna Pinegar and Mary Kresanek hit home runs for Thomas.

Anstead's were able to get only five singles off the pitching of Hufford.

Dixon National Bank displayed an awesome hitting attack with three home runs, a triple, and seven doubles in only three innings at bat to easily defeat Kline's 21-3. The win once again deadlocked the winners with Eichler's for first place.

Linda Humphrey and Vickie Jacobs led their team with three hits each. Linda Strub, Laurie Huggins and Cherrie Harmon all hit home runs while Linda Souffier chipped in a first-inning triple for the winners.

Robin Van Matre and Peggy Gabany, with two hits each, had four of Kline's six singles.

Paisley wins tennis crown

Defending champion Randy Paisley won the George Covert Memorial Tournament for boys 16 and under held during the past week on Dixon courts, and Jim Weed took the runner-up trophy.

Paisley won all but two games out of 60, while Weed lost seven. There were 12 entries in this annual round robin tournament. Each contestant plays every other competitor five games, giving younger players tournament experience of more than one or two rounds.

Chris and Sue Hubbs made it an all Dixon finals in the 16 and under girls division at the Aurora Beacon News Open singles tournament yesterday (Sunday) in Aurora, and in fact the finals are expected to be played in Dixon today, (Monday).

The finals were transferred to Dixon when Chris Hubbs turned up with a knee injury and could not compete yesterday afternoon. The winner and runner-up trophies are in Dixon, and will be awarded following the match at 6 p.m. today at the south side courts.

Chris and Sue played a lot of tennis last week, returning Thursday night from competition in the Western Tennis Association closed tournament in Indianapolis. They played singles and doubles in the 16 and under division and advanced to the quarter finals in the doubles.

The girls 16 semi-finals on the Aurora courts were all-Dixon, too. Diane Langenfeld advanced three rounds to the semi-finals in the upper bracket and lost to Chris Hubbs in a three set match 4-6, 8-6, 6-0. Betsy Flanagan also advanced to the semi-finals in the lower bracket where she lost to Sue, 6-3, 6-1.

Ed Hubbs and David Badger each advanced to the quarter finals in the boys 18 and under division of the Aurora event, where Hubbs lost to Evans (Aurora), and Badger was stopped by Pokorny (Aurora). Jim Weed advanced to the second round in both the 18 and 16 divisions. Mike Flanagan lost in the first round in both the 18 and 16 divisions and Hal Hamersmith lost in the first round of the 18's.

Diane Langenfeld and Betsy Flanagan both advanced to the semi-finals of the 14 and under girls division. Chris Hubbs was runner-up in the girls 18 and under, losing to Debbie Fritz, Rockford.

In the Covert Memorial tournament here Mike Flanagan placed third and Jim Kresanek fourth, with the others finishing in the following order: Wayne Badger, Bob Miles, Mike Long, Jeff Bollman, Duane Cowley, Mike Duffy, Bill Freres, and Don Weed.

Trevino insists Nicklaus better

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) Lee Trevino, still bubbling over his second straight victory in the British Open Golf Championship, admits that his great rival, Jack Nicklaus, is a better player.

By winning the British title Saturday, Trevino put an end to this year to Nicklaus' dream of capturing the first Grand Slam in modern golf—sweeping all four major professional titles.

Trevino survived a charge by the 32-year-old Nicklaus in the final round over Muirfield's 6,892-yard, par 71 links.

Then the man who calls himself "Super Mex" paid this tribute to Nicklaus: "I don't think I am in the same class as Jack. Nicklaus can be beaten, simply because nobody can win all the time. But to beat him, you really have to play well," Trevino said.

"There was no one in the field who could honestly say he was in the same class as Jack."

Trevino said he hoped Nicklaus would go on to win the Professional Golfers Association Championship next month at Birmingham, Mich., the last of the Grand Slam tournaments.

"Then I'll be known not just as the British Open champion but as the man who stopped Jack from doing the big one this year," Trevino said.

Political success and assassinations

By C. G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The behavior which makes politicians successful may also be the behavior which makes them the target of assassins, a psychiatrist suggests.

It often is difficult to determine what is courageous and what is foolhardy in political leaders' activities, said the psychiatrist, Dr. David A. Rothstein, who has studied assassinations for a number of years.

There is a dilemma for the politician, he said in an interview, because he must appear publicly and show qualities of leadership to be successful.

At the same time, these qualities attract assassins.

"Maybe risk-taking is inherent in people who want to be in that kind of position," Rothstein said.

The psychiatrist served as a consultant to the Warren commission, which investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, and the Eisenhower commission, which studied causes and prevention of violence.

He has a private practice in Chicago and is an attending psychiatrist at Michael Reese Medical Center. He formerly was staff psychiatrist at the federal prison in Springfield, Mo., where he studied several prisoners who had threatened the lives of presidents.

Rothstein said he does not think the assassinations in the United States are political but rather assassinations of political figures.

The political figure, with his strong, dominating personality, reminds the would-be assassin of his mother, he said, and arouses feelings of ambivalence. That is, feelings of love and hate exist together.

The political figure has, in the mind of the attackers, failed to meet his needs, just as the mother has failed to meet his needs, the psychiatrist explained.

By killing the political figure, the assassin symbolically rids himself of his mother and all his failures and frustrations.

A common trait Rothstein has found in would-be assassins and in studies of those who tried it or accomplished it is a dominating mother and poor relationships with women.

The psychiatrist has written that certain political leaders display what might be viewed as "unconscious fantasies of omnipotence or counterphobic elements aimed at mastering man's mortality."

That is, they appear to think they are all-powerful or do the things they are afraid of doing in order to master their fear of them, as a child might go into a dark room to overcome his fear of the dark.

Such activities, he added, "could inadvertently elicit the very fate which they seek to master."

He continued:

"In one way, this could be viewed as evidence for an unrealistic belief in their own indestructibility, which would allow them to take unwarranted risks, unwarranted because the leaders remain, after all, mortal men."

"It even appears in some cases as if there may be a tendency to take a risk for the sake of the risk—to challenge or dare death—combined with an air of fatalism. All of this would both mask and reveal an underlying fascination with death."

He cites the dangerously fast driving of Presidents Kennedy and Franklin D. Roosevelt and the daring athletic feats of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

He also cites some of the activities of President Nixon, such as his mounting the top of a car and giving the peace sign to enrage a crowd of demonstrators at San Jose, Calif., while vice president.

Even Abraham Lincoln returned to the White House on several occasions with bullet holes in his hat after unescorted rides at night.

Such activities as those of Winston Churchill — who, as prime minister of Great Britain during World War II, crossed an ocean infested with enemy submarines — engender confidence and courage among the people, Rothstein points out.

"A more prudent man might have stayed in safety," he wrote. "Perhaps it took someone with an unrealistic faith in his own indestructibility to do this."

"Yet," he added, "It was no doubt this very faith in ultimate success which made him a great leader, rallied public support, morale and enthusiasm and gave the British people the faith in themselves to fight on."

Looking for a great fishing hole? We can lead you to three!

Who'd have thought that the cooling water systems of our generating stations would spawn three great fishing holes? One in Waukegan. One just east of the Illinois-Indiana line in Hammond. And another near Springfield.

Waukegan Fishing Hole. Folks tell us that the breakwater at our Waukegan Generating Station is one of the greatest fishing spots on Lake Michigan. They discovered swarms of coho and trout in the warmer waters of our outflow. In fact, the area became so popular with fishermen that we built a public access to our breakwater, and turned it over to the City of Waukegan as a fishing pier.

State Line Fishing Hole. Here again, at our State Line Generating Station, the fish gravitated to the warmer waters of our outflow. We recently gave the public access to over 2500 feet of shoreline. Now there's plenty of casting room for fishermen.

Sangchris Lake State Park Fishing Hole. This is one of the first cooling lakes built by a utility company to be turned into a recreational area. This beautiful 2700-acre lake is stocked with a dozen species of fish.

Camping, fishing, boating—it's all here for you—on a lake that didn't even exist five years ago. So bring your poles and bait. Fish and think your thoughts. Who knows, electric generating stations may be closer to nature than any of us ever thought.

1. Waukegan Station. Go to intersection of Sheridan Road and Greenwood Ave. in north Waukegan. Go east on Greenwood to lake and fishing pier.
2. State Line Station. Go east on 103rd St. to end of street. Turn north (left) to 100th St. Turn right on 100th St. and proceed to Calumet Park. Then right to lake shore south of generating station.
3. Sangchris Lake. From Chicago, take Route 66 to Bypass Route 55 around Springfield. At junction of 55 and 29, turn southeast on Route 29 and proceed about 5 miles to Rochester. In Rochester, turn south at Sangchris sign and go 7 miles to New City. Turn east, proceed about 3 miles.

McGovern advisers hope to raise $36.5 million

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's financial advisers are planning to raise $36.5 million for the presidential election campaign, depending in part on successful big-donor techniques perfected by Republican fund-raisers for President Nixon.

Even before the South Dakota had sewn up the Democratic presidential nomination, the money strategy for the fall campaign had been outlined to about 35 select McGovern fund-raisers.

The private meeting was held this week one floor above the candidate's command complex in the Doral Hotel. That session alone reportedly netted $1.3 million from its well-heeled participants.

Two newsmen who identified themselves attended.

More than 80 per cent of McGovern's money since he announced for the presidency 18 months ago has come from thousands of small contributors, federal records show.

But McGovern's people hope to raise $15 million — or nearly half — of their projected campaign budget in the category known to both parties as special gifts.

This generally means contributions of $5,000 or more.

Miles Rubin, a New York lawyer heading the special-gifts efforts, told the finance committee meeting: "Sen. McGovern now realizes the vital need to move into the special-gifts area."

Increasing public awareness of campaign finance has brought mounting criticism of dependence on large contributors.

"He didn't fully realize it until a week ago when Morris and Henry talked with him and explained the full costs of a national campaign," Rubin confided to the meeting.

Morris is Morris Dees, a Montgomery, Ala., lawyer who raised $4 million in small contributions for McGovern's pre-convention campaign. Henry is Henry Kimelman, a Virgin Islands importer and campaign finance manager as well as the second-largest campaign contributor to date.

As outlined, McGovern's financial blueprint is to raise the $36.5 million from these sources:

—$15 million from special gifts and loans.

—$10 million from direct mail and television appeals.

—$5 million from special events such as concerts.

—$4 million from national and state committees and participants.

ners.

—$1 million from a special young-people's effort.

—$1 million from industry.

—$500,000 from merchandizing such items as T-shirts.

The industry effort is being headed by Donald A. Petrie, former head of Avis Rent-a-Car who is now a partner with the investment banking firm of Lazard, Fries & Co.

"We want to do what Maurice Stans has done for the Republicans," Rubin told the finance meeting. Stans, financial chairman of Nixon's re-election effort and a former secretary of commerce, raised more than $20 million for Nixon's 1968 campaign.

There have been some predictions McGovern would not be able to raise money from the wealthy because of his tax proposals. But Kimelman and Rubin displayed no such apprehension.
